

Michelle urged: 'Don't get Botox!'

Aesthetics doctor Dr Wong reveals the actress has approached him for advice about treatment...

ON HER 27TH BIRTHDAY MICHELLE KEEGAN TOLD NEWS! SHE HADN'T RULED OUT HAVING BOTOX "further down the line".

Now, as the star approaches the big 3-0, Dr Vincent Wong, who performs non-surgical aesthetics and cosmetics procedures at his Harley Street clinic, has revealed she's come to him for advice on whether to have the wrinkle-busting jab – proving Mich is bucking under the pressure of keeping up with her enhanced Essex counterparts.

Dr Wong told news!, "Naturally, everyone is worried about ageing and with Michelle's job there's a huge pressure for her to look her best at all times. She's asked for my opinion on whether she needs Botox but I've told her to wait a few years, at least."

Last year, the actress, 28, expressed her thoughts on getting surgery. She said, "I don't think there's anything wrong with it, but as an actress you can't have too much done. It can get picked up on screen and you need emotion in your face – but you never know further down the line."

A year earlier, Michelle admitted she "would never say never" to Botox – but for the time being Dr Wong says the pretty brunette is sticking to non-invasive treatments.

He explained, "About ten weeks before her wedding to Mark Wright, I saw her about four times. She had my Per-lectha Complement Facial, which involves infusing hyaluronic acid into the skin via microneedles to help with the hydration of the skin to give a healthy glow. In addition, she had a treatment called INTRACEL, which delivers radiofrequency to the deep layers of the skin, again with the use of microneedles. To achieve the best result in that time frame, Michelle also used the Stem Cell Revitalising Cream from my skincare line, which helps with cell repair and to dampen down any inflammation."

As Michelle celebrated her sister-in-law Jess Wright's 30th birthday last month, fans were quick to criticise her altered appearance.

One wrote, "It's a shame Michelle looks like a TOWIE done now – remember her on Celebrity Juice pre Mark Wright and she was so naturally pretty with hardly any make up on."

It wouldn't be surprising if Michelle had felt tempted to follow in Jess' footsteps by preventing the signs of ageing earlier rather than later, either. In July, Jess confessed she'd dabbled with small amounts of Botox – dubbing it "baby Botox" – adding, "I'm 29 now and they say if you get it earlier, it's better."

Dr Wong said, "Michelle does want to prevent the signs of ageing and bring her skin condition to the best state she can, and it's always better to start looking after your skin when you're in your twenties."

FRANKIE'S ALTERED IMAGE

The singer doesn't look like herself in recent pictures...

FRANKIE BRIDGE MAY HAVE GROWN OUT HER TRADEMARK PIXIE CROP, but that's not the only reason the pretty singer looks different these days. According to our expert, the mum-of-two has given nature a helping hand.

"It would appear that Frankie has had a small amount of Botox injected into her forehead as her skin is looking quite shiny and taut," says Transform's Anne Marie Gillett.

Frankie, 26, who was rumoured to have had a boob job in 2012, was clearly ready for a change of image after giving birth to her second son Carter in August. She ditched the sweeping fringe, which she'd previously described as her "comfort blanket", and any excess pregnancy pounds have vanished. But her transformation wasn't entirely down a strict diet and a haircut...

"Frankie's chin also looks longer than in previous images," continues Anne Marie. "Although Frankie has always had a prominent chin, it's possible that she has had Botox in her lower face to help relax and drop her chin slightly. "She has great skin and we'd advise her to have minimal product injected in order to keep with her natural look."

Frankie has previously revealed she would consider surgery. She said, "I wouldn't rule cosmetic surgery out. Never say never. I always joke and say I'm going to grow old gracefully but you never know what you're going to do."

Take note, Frankie!
